

My family enjoys the Indiana No-Call Legislation and the privacy and quietness it has allowed us. I understand the desire to set a national standard but implore the FCC to not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law. It has been very effective for our family in that we went from multiple calls nightly to no calls that interrupt our dinner time or the children's homework time. Whatever proposed rulemaking FCC is envisioning, please only use the national standard as necessary in states that don't already have sufficient rules in place. Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law has been a God-send for our home and I imagine many other Hoosier households. Thank you for letting me share my concerns with the FCC.
